

TORN BY A CYCLONE.

A Destructive Tornado Visits Little Rock, Arkansas.

The Streets Are Made Impassable by the Ruins.

MANY PEOPLE KILLED.

State Penitentiary and Insane Asylum Badly Damaged.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 3.—A terrible tornado struck this city at 7:30 o'clock last evening and almost devastated the business portion of the city. Several people are known to have been killed and injured, while it is feared scores more have met the same horrible fate. The main portion of the business center, bounded on the south by Third street, on the north by River front, on the west by Center street and on the east by Commercial street, is practically in ruins and the amount of damage is incalculable. The total loss will probably approximate $500,000. The tornado was accompanied by a terrific storm and the stocks of goods in those business houses which were unroofed, though not otherwise wrecked, are destroyed by water.

The storm struck the state penitentiary which stands on a hill in the western part of the city, with fearful force, destroying the dining room, tearing down the stable and shops, unroofing the main cell building, and demolishing the warden's office. Several convicts were seriously injured, one of whom died an hour afterward. Down town, the lightning struck the Martin block, corner of Spring and Second streets, totally wrecking the third floor. A man by the name of Eaton was fatally injured there. The Tilles building, corner of Center and Markham streets, was unroofed and a part of the fourth floor of the Gleason's hotel was blown away. At Main and Second streets the tops of several adjacent buildings lie piled up in an indescribable heap.

The worst damage, however, was done to property on Markham and Commercial streets. Nearly every building in that district is unroofed and many are totally wrecked. The large three-story building at Markham and Cumberland occupied by the H. H. McCarthy Co. is a total wreck, as is also the two-story building on the opposite corner occupied by Max Elkens as a saloon. The third story of the old Daming house was blown off and the several stores under it were flooded by water and debris. The streets were filled with tin roofs, electric wires and other wreckage and it will be several days before the extent of the damage can be accurately known. The large cotton warehouse situated at Second and Scott, owned by J. H. Baum, was wrecked. It fell on the Western Union telegraph office, which was also wrecked, thus cutting off all telegraphic communication with outside points. The city is in the densest darkness and the streets are a veritable portable stream of mud. Rescuing parties are busy searching for the wounded but a list of the casualties is unobtainable.

Among those known to have been seriously and probably fatally injured are C. P. Monroe, member of Arkansas legislature, and Eaton Sam Smith, prominent cotton buyer, is also badly wounded. Others are known to have been more or less injured, but names are not obtainable.

All kinds of rumors are afloat; one to the effect that the insane asylum, in which some 600 patients are confined, has been blown down and many patients injured, but the rumor is situated a mile from the city and the rumor cannot be confirmed. A number of escaped lunatics have been captured near the Union depot and this fact gives color to the rumor.

HOWGATE IN NEBRASKA.

He Spent Much of His Time at Beatrice and Transacted Business There.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 3.—The Bee prints a lengthy story in the nature of a sequel to the arrest of Captain Henry Howgate, the embezzler of government funds, now under arrest in New York. The story details how Howgate spent much of his time as a fugitive in Nebraska, at the home of a prominent Beatrice attorney, who also acted as his agent in investing part of his stolen money. The attorney involved denies the story. The funds are said to have been put in Florida lands. There is considerable evidence to corroborate the story that Howgate made the Beatrice attorney his trustee for the Florida lands. In 1886 Hon. N. K. Griggs, at one time United States consul at Chemnitz, stated to a mutual friend that Howgate and visited the attorney at Beatrice several times during the period he was a fugitive from justice. Mr. Griggs is a resident of Beatrice. He stated too, that upon the occasion of one of the visits made by Howgate to Beatrice the attorney in question was given a trust deed for 40,000 acres of choice lands in Florida.

The feature of the case attracting attention in Nebraska is the extent of Howgate's investments through the Beatrice lawyer, the circumstances under which the deal was made and whether or not any of the funds passing through that attorney's hands may be recovered by federal authority.

Chicago Letter Carriers Will Not Parade. WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Acting Postmaster General Jones has sent a letter to Postmaster Hering of Chicago concerning the inspection of letter carriers in that city on next Sunday. General Jones directs for business reasons that there be no parade or assembling on the lake front. Mr. Hering is directed to have the inspection take place at the postoffice and the several stations without parades or any unnecessary demonstrations.

ROBBERY FRUSTRATED.

A Plot Discovered to Loot a Rock Island Train Near St. Joseph.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Oct. 3.—Another train robbery on the Rock Island system was yesterday frustrated by the capture of two of the principal members of the gang, Lee Frizzell and Fred Jones. They were apprehended by Sheriff Carson and Detective Flynn of Chicago, at noon, and lodged in the county jail. Four of their companions escaped, but their capture is anticipated at any time. For nearly four weeks the authorities here have known that an attempt would be made to rob the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific train, due here from the East at 7:40. The police and county officials were told of the plot by Jim Callahan, a notorious local tough, who was confined in the workhouse. The place selected for the hold-up is located about three miles southeast of the city. September 21, September 25 and October 1, had been selected by the robbers for robbing the train, but owing to a misunderstanding they were unable to get together. A number of policemen, Sheriff Carson and his deputies and several detectives were on the grounds, prepared to give the train robbers a warm reception had they shown up. Both Frizzell and Jones are hard characters and have unsavory reputations. Jones is supposed to be a "long highwayman" who has held up and robbed many people during the last four months on the road leading to Lake Canby.

PEARY WRITES A LETTER.

He Is Confident That He Will Reach the Pole.

PORTLAND, Maine, Oct. 3.—E. C. Reynolds of Cape Elizabeth, who organized the relief expedition here, received a letter from Lieutenant Peary, dated Anniversary Lodge, Greenland, August 16. In this letter Lieutenant Peary writes that while he did not fully realize his plans the last year, he has still another year before him, in which he is confident he will win. The main difficulty this year was the terrible weather, rough and cold. He then goes on to say: "Whatever you may see in the papers to the contrary, I have ample provisions for next year. My party, though small, is an effective one, and we can remain here with the most complete safety. Every native in the tribe is a friend and willing assistant, and I shall take no risks. I am only working to carry out my plans, and shall take no risk to accomplish them."

Infringement of Patents.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The board of directors of the American Graphophone company yesterday directed that suits for infringement of patents, injunctions and accountings be brought directly against the retail dealers in the Edison phonograph and supplies in the United States and Canada. The patents owned by the American Graphophone company, it is claimed, give them a monopoly of all practical talking machines and cylinders for records. The first suits will be instituted in New Jersey and Massachusetts.

Priests of Pallas Parade.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 3.—The Priests of Pallas last night was in eighth annual parade of the every respect the finest parade which the association has given. It was witnessed by 250,000 people. The weather was ideal, the threatening inclemency of the night being having given way, as if in consideration to a balm and thoroughly delightful evening. The twenty gorgeous floats wound their way through the business streets of the city, which were lined with cheering thousands of visitors throughout the entire route.

Veiled Prophet at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 3.—The Mound City's patron saint, the Veiled Prophet, made his annual appearance here last night before a throng of nearly a half million home and visiting sight-seers. As usual, he entered the city accompanied by a magnificent regiment of royal court. The floats of the pageant characterized the similar pageants of Mobile, New Orleans, etc., in addition the various preceding pageants of the Veiled Prophet being as it were, a review of past glories.

United Order of Odd Fellows.

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—The Grand United Order of Odd Fellows, composed entirely of colored members, is in national convention in this city the first time in twelve years. The order is over fifty years old, is the largest society of colored people in the world and is under the jurisdiction of the United Order of Great Britain.

Chinese Doubt a Story.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Officials of the Chinese legation were very incredulous yesterday of the reports from Shanghai that the Chinese emperor was about to be dethroned and his place occupied by a son of Prince Kung. If any such coup d'état is contemplated, no intimation of it has come here.

ONLY ONCE MORE.

Champion Corbett Makes a Statement to the Public.

He Says He Will Fight Just Once More.

WILL KNOCK ALL OUT.

Next July He Will Dispose of the Whole Pugilist Army.

Boston, Oct. 3.—The following ultimatum was given out last night by William A. Brady, manager for Champion James J. Corbett:

To Whom It May Concern:

The Olympic club of New Orleans claims the right to declare Robert Fitzsimmons champion of the world if I do not meet him. They have no right to do this, but rather than give the queer lot of sports who are praying for my defeat the satisfaction of seeing me declared ex-champion by default, I want to put myself on record as follows: I have fooled this crowd twice before, and I am going to take pleasure in doing it again. I do not propose that a foreigner shall take my title from me by default, a title which I honestly won by fighting men in my class. Since I started on my career as a boxer I have never refused to meet a heavy-weight, and I have always tried to follow a straight course. The eagerness of Mr. Fitzsimmons to fight me becomes apparent to all who study the facts. The Olympic club needs an attraction for Mardi Gras week, next February, and they figure if they arrange the contest between Mr. Fitzsimmons and myself it would draw a great deal of money.

I would rather fight in New Orleans than in any other place on earth, but I question the right of the Olympic club to take the prejudiced stand which they have assumed in favor of Fitzsimmons. The newspapers are aiding these people in placing me in a false position, and they did the same thing with Jack Johnson, champion of Australia, drew out his money and sneaked out of the country like a cur. I am anxious to retire from pugilism, but the gang of queer sports who are hoping I may be beaten shall never have the satisfaction of saying that I showed a "white feather." They say Fitzsimmons' money talks and that I am not the right kind of a champion because I refuse to break legitimate contracts and fight every "Tom, Dick and Harry" at the drop of the hat.

Now let those men who are seeking notoriety at my expense get together all the fighters in the world which have $10,000 with wages that I can not defeat them, no weight or color barred. I will deposit $10,000 with David Blanchard of Boston as an evidence of good faith, and I will vote any one week after July 1 next to fighting one of them each night during that week. I mean this, and this will be the last time I will train for a pugilistic contest. Now, you would-be champions, Robert Fitzsimmons, Peter Jackson, Ed Smith or Peter Maher here is your chance. I will take Fitzsimmons Monday, and after him first come first served. I will fight for the club offering the largest purse. I bar no one; this goes for all.

PRINCE KUNG, AN ABLE MAN

He Is Accounted One of the Most Adroit Statesmen in China.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Prince Kung, who has been recalled to imperial favor in China and placed at the head of the privy council, is said by diplomats who have known him personally to be one of the ablest and most adroit statesmen in the Chinese empire. He has behind him a long record of distinguished service, beginning in 1850 and running till April, 1894, when he fell into disgrace. He was the founder of the privy council, has a broad knowledge of foreign affairs, having himself acted as minister of state for thirty years, and to his courage and energy in remaining at Peking in 1891 when the British occupied the place and the imperial family fled was due the very existence of the reigning dynasty.

In April, 1894, the empress dismissed him from office in disgrace, in her decree asserting, that, probably on account of broken health, he had become careless and had neglected his duties.

He has since recovered, and, while he is now in the sixties, he is said to be a vigorous, alert man.

During his retirement from office he has always opposed Li Hung Chang, the viceroy, and his restoration is taken here to mean the ascendancy of his party over Li Hung Chang and it is also believed he stands committed to a vigorous war policy and will endeavor to force the fighting with the Japanese instead of following the Fabian policy of Li Hung Chang, who must give place to Kung in the direction of affairs.

So far as known here Prince Kung had but one son, a youth of evil habits, who died in a fit of dissipation many years ago. Should he have a second son, it is not believed here that he would endeavor to place him on the throne and displace the reigning emperor, as the empress would scarcely put him in a position where he could destroy her own son, unless she felt confident of his loyalty.

Every household should be prepared for emergencies, for how often, "like a thief in the night" croup or whooping cough may come upon a dear child without warning and in a few hours place its sweet life in a balance a slender thread. Cubeb Cough Cure promptly used, will avert all danger. Delays are dangerous. Sold by Rowley Bros.

If the care of the hair was made a part of a lady's education, we should not see so many gray heads, and the use of Hall's Hair Renewer would be unnecessary.

ELECTION TANGLE.

The Courts Will Probably Be Called Upon to Unravel It.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 3.—The state and county election held in this city yesterday resulted in a tangle which it will probably take the courts to straighten out. The fight was between two factions of the Democratic party and bids fair to be a close one. In the early morning, in consequence of fraud having been threatened by the faction holding the appointing power of inspectors, deputy sheriffs walked into each polling place and signified their intention of remaining. The inspectors all over the city thereupon closed the voting booths awaiting instructions from the leaders. A compromise was affected in several of the outlying wards in a short time and voting was resumed, but in the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth wards, the three most populous wards in the city, not a vote was cast, owing to a failure to agree upon any arrangement and in consequence of this tangle, out of a qualified vote only a small proportion was polled.

All day the state troops were held under arms at their quarters, but were not needed, as no blood shed was due to the political struggle. The main issues of the factional fight were a railroad commission and the alleged attempt of a railroad corporation to capture the next legislature, and nowhere has the bitterness grown to such intensity as in this county. Throughout the state, London, for supreme court justice, has met with practically no opposition. The Populists cast a very small vote for their ticket.

FRED CLOSE'S TAX.

He Explains His Failure to List His Personal Property.

Colonel Fred Close, who was out of the city when this paper published the story about evading making a statement of his personal property for taxation, today said that he did tell the Tampa township assessor that all his personal property is listed in Doniphan county, because he has always lived there and has never claimed his residence anywhere else. He was surprised at the letter from the county clerk of Doniphan county saying that his personal property statement for 1894 had not been filed in that county.

Colonel Close says that last spring he wrote to Mr. Briggs, the township assessor at his old home in Doniphan county, telling him to make up his personal property statement from last year's list, and it would be all right. He said he would write to Assessor Briggs today for an explanation of why his statement had not been filed with the county clerk. He says he will not pay any personal property tax in Shawnee county.

ABOUT THE WEASEL.

A Graceful Little Creature, Full of Shyness, Shrewdness and Cruelty.

The weasel is one of the prettiest and most graceful creatures that can be imagined. It lives in all cool countries and makes its home in hollow trees, in stone heaps or in any convenient hole where it can find shelter.

It is no larger than a good sized rat, but has longer legs. It has a long, lithe, slender body, long neck and dainty little head, with small, smooth, sleek hair of a brown color on its back and white below. It has long whiskers on its nose and a very short tail. Its weapons are its strong claws and sharp teeth, which it knows how to use so well that many larger animals live in constant terror of it. The weasel itself has very few enemies.

Even the powerful birds of prey, which are ever on the alert for rabbits and other small game, rarely swoop down on the weasel, for, although they can easily carry it away in their strong talons, it often proves very troublesome booty. A hunter once noticed a hawk, high in the air, which was flapping its wings violently and apparently in great trouble. Suddenly it darted and fell to the earth almost at the hunter's feet, where it lay gasping and dying, while a tiny weasel sprang from the heap of feathers and scampered away to hide itself in the stone wall near by. On examining the bird the hunter found that its throat was torn to pieces by the weasel's sharp teeth. The little creature, although unable to escape from the powerful grip of the hawk, had twisted itself until it could reach the hawk's throat, when it easily inflicted a deadly wound.

The defenseless hares and rabbits are bitterly persecuted by the weasel, which springs upon them, and with wonderful instinct knows exactly where to fasten its sharp teeth. The unfortunate hare may scamper away as fast as it can, but its enemy clings to its neck, and the poor little animal must soon fall, faint and dying, from loss of blood.

Rats and mice, squirrels, moles, frogs and birds of all kinds are hunted by the weasel, and it may often be seen twisting itself in and out of stone heaps or walls in the vicinity of barnyards, where it watches for chickens, doves and other domestic fowls.

If taken very young, weasels may be tamed, and a whole army of cats will not free a house so quickly of rats and mice as will one little weasel. Puss may sit patiently by the rat's hole and wait until the mischievous beast ventures forth, but where a rat can go the weasel can follow. Weasels and ferrets are often kept on board of ships and are petted by the sailors, for a ship with a weasel as passenger is free from rats.

There are many pretty stories told of tame weasels and of the affection they manifest toward those who care for them. A lady who received a present of a very small and very young weasel fed it with milk, which it drank from her hand. The little creature became so attached to its mistress that whenever she called it it would instantly appear from whatever corner in which it was curled up and would climb all over her like a squirrel. It never bit her and would play with her cat and dog, often riding around on their backs, but it never injured them. Its curiosity afforded its mistress much amusement. If she opened a box or trunk, Master Weasel would raise himself on his hind legs and make an effort to peep inside.

This little creature is much hunted by man, and large numbers are caught in traps, it being a general impression that they do more harm than good, but although a weasel may now and then carry off a chicken from the farmyard it does much more good by freeing barns and cornfields of mice and other small destructive animals.—Troy Press.

Heart of a Seventeenth Century Hero.

The Gazette de Lausanne announces that in the church at Aubonne the tomb which, according to the Latin inscription on the memorial stone, contains the heart of the famous French naval commander, Abraham de Quenes, was formally opened in the presence of the authorities, and a small silver box was found in a cavity hollowed out of the rock. The box was opened and found to contain a human heart incased in lead. A record of the discovery was drawn up by a notary, and the box was then replaced, pending its removal to Dieppe, the municipality of which town had expressed a desire to have the relic. Du Quenes having been born at the Norman seaport in 1610. The commander, who died in 1688, was the hero of the defense of Bordeaux against the English and Spaniards in 1650. He also won a brilliant victory over the famous Dutch admiral, De Ruyter, in 1676. Although known to history as Admiral du Quenes, he never enjoyed the title officially, his profession of the Protestant faith having prevented his attaining flag rank.

Birch Rods For British Undergrads.

I am glad to have received from an Oxford man a cordial endorsement of my suggestion for the use of the birch in the university on the persons of undergraduates given to "ragging" and similar follies. I learn from this correspondent that corporal punishment was one of the wise institutions founded at Oxford by Alfred the Great—the Solomon of our royal line—and I am favorably impressed by the suggestion which my correspondent goes on to make—that the college bursars, having few or no useful functions to perform, should be armed with rods and transformed into college birchers. No doubt some sentimentalists will protest against the birch as a humiliation to the dignity of the university "man." When, however, a man is not a man, but a schoolboy, common sense suggests that he should be treated as a schoolboy.—London Truth.

A VETERAN'S VERDICT.

The War is Over. A Well-known Soldier, Correspondent and Journalist Makes a Disclosure.

Indiana contributed her thousands of brave soldiers to the war, and no state bears a better record in that respect than it does. In literature it is rapidly acquiring an enviable place. In war and literature Solomon Yewell, well known as a writer as "Sol," has won an honorable position. During the late war he was a member of Co. M, 2d N. Y. Cavalry and of the 11th Indiana Infantry Volunteers. Regarding an important claim made by him as follows:

"Several of us old veterans here are using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, Heart Cure and Nerve and Liver Pills, all of them giving splendid satisfaction. In fact, we have never used remedies that compare with them. Of the Pills we must say they are the best combination of the qualities required in a preparation of their nature we have ever known. We have none but words of praise for them. They are the outgrowth of a new principle in medicine, and tone up the system wonderfully. We say to all, try these remedies."—Solomon Yewell, Marion, Ind., Dec. 3, 1890. These remedies are sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle. Six bottles $5, express prepaid. They positively contain no opiates or dangerous drugs.
